"The South 40"

by JAMES A. SMITH
EXTENSION AGENT

1976 was a strange year when we look back at the weather situation. We want to spend some time looking back, but first, do you know where in Virginia is the highest annual rainfall and lowest annual rainfall. I'll confess that I didn't 'til I did some research. The highest annual precipitation occurs way out in Southwest Virginia at a little place called Pennington Gap with 50.29 inches. The lowest is at Woodstock with an average of 33.80. Appomattox is right in the middle with an average of 40.43 inches.

In 1976 we had 47.83 inches or 7.4 above normal. There were six months when precipitation was below normal and a like number when it was above normal. Three of those below normal months came right together in the most critical part of the growing season - June, July, August. Between June 21 and September 16 (86 days) there was only 5.13 inches of rain.

This is also cold and hot. There were 110 days when the low was 32 degrees or below; the most since 1969 when we had 119 or 1968 with 117 or 1967 with 118 or 1966 with 113. There were more days (42) when the temperature recorded a high of 90 degrees or higher. This is the largest number since we've recorded this information in 1966. The closest was in 1966 with 36. This was the first year that we've recorded 70 degree weather in February (2 days 72 degrees and 73 degrees), and the first year with 90 degree or higher in April.

After five 90 degree days in April there followed two lows of 32 degrees or less. In 1976 there were only 172 growing days, the fewest since 1966 when there were 144.

With all the change in weather there was only 4 inches of snow; the lowest since 1966.

There are several new publications that may help you: 1976 Corn Performance Trials, Virginia Dark-Fired Tobacco Variety Informaton 1977, Flue-Cured Tobacco Variety Information for 1977, Farmers Tax Guide, 1977 and Your Federal Income Tax, 1977 Edition.

Also there are flyers on the Senior bull sales at Culpeper January 15 and Red House January 29. You'll see the data for the first 112 days on these flyers. There's also a tear-off card to get a catalog if you need one.

This is a good set of bulls. I just hope that many will find a home in Appomattox County. High gaining bulls are the quickest step to high performing calves.

We're hoping to get a few of the promising but non-released hybrid corn varieties to test this year. If you would like to be one of those to try these new varieties, just give a call.

There's a lot of concern about small grain. Much of the wheat was not sowed. But with the price outlook it may be just as well. The key to small grain production is tillering. Each tiller has the possibility of forming a head of grain. The job you do as a manager is to stimulate tiller development for maximum grain production.

If January and February are extremely cold, yields will be reduced because there will not be time for it to fully tiller.

This season timely topdressing may be especially important. Small grain should be topdressed as soon after February 1 as possible. Application of nitrogen at this time stimulates tillering and plant development. In contrast, if nitrogen is not applied until late March, the critical tiller stimulation that is needed this season will be greatly reduced. Suppose you elect to apply the nitrogen two weeks earlier this year in order not to be late, what would be the consequences. If the weather turns extremely warm, there is some risk of over-stimulation of plant growth and you increase the chance of winter kill. Also you may get greater loss of nitrogen by leaching.

Some will need to suppress garlic with 2,4,D or Banvel. Applying a herbicide and nitrogen in one application may seriously reduce yield. These herbicides will reduce tillering when applied too early.

ASCS Today

By Tom Conrad

WOOL PAYMENT PROGRAM TO BE CONTINUED UNCHANGED IN 1977 - The U. S. Department of Agriculture has announced that the incentive price of 72 cents a pound for marketings of shorn wool will continue unchanged from the 1976 level.

This price is in accordance with the National Wool Act, as amended by the Agricultural Act of 1970 and the Agricultural and Consumer Protection Act of 1973. The National Wool Act, as amended, requires that the incentive price shall be at the above levels for each of the marketing years beginning January 1, 1971 and ending December 31, 1977.

Pulled wool will continue to be supported at a level comparable to the incentive price for shorn wool through payments on unshorn lambs.

As in the past years shorn wool payments will be based on a percentage of each producer's returns from sales. The percentage will be that required to raise the national average price received by all producers from shorn wool up to the announced incentive price of 72 cents a pound.

The final date to file applications for incentive payments on shorn wool and unshorn lambs marketed during the 1976 calendar year is January 31, 1977. These applications are to be filed at the ASCS Office.

NEW GROWER ALLOTMENTS It's that time of the year again. Now through February 15, 197 applications will be accepted for a new growers allotment on all crops except wheat. If you are interested in applying for a new growers allotment for your farm, you should be aware of the fact that you must earn 50% or more of your income from farming, you cannot own or operate a farm with an allotment for which you are applying, no experience is required for feed grains, for tobacco two years production in the last five years as a sharecropper or tenant is required and for tobacco you must own the land. For many other details or requirements, I ask that you contact the ASCS office.

SEASONAL LABOR Migrant labor crew recruitment is now under way in the supply states of Florida and Texas. In order to benefit from the services of the more experienced crews, it is encouraged that your orders for migrant crew labor be placed now. If you are interested, the Farm Placement staff of the Lynchburg VEC will meet with interested growers on a scheduled basis from January 6th through the 28th of January, in order to process these early orders. Please call (804) 528-1141 and ask for either George Jackson, Jr. or Matt Lair, and they will schedule a date to meet with you and explain the services that are offered.

HEALTH WISE-2

Your body is like a water-cooled engine, for neither you nor an engine can perform very long on a hot day without enough WATER.But how much is enough? Is THIRST a reliable indicator of how much water is needed?

An experiment conducted by Dr. Pitts of Harvard School of Public Health indicates that it is not. In three seperate experiments she showed what happened to athletes who were exercising in a hot environment: first, with no water; second, with water as desired; and third, drinking water equal to the amount lost in sweat. The athletes were instructed to walk as long as they could on a treadmill going 3½ miles per hour. At regular intervals they were allowed 5 minute rest periods, during which their body temperatures were taken.

In the first experiment, with no water, temperature rose from 98.6 to 102 degrees, the zone of impending exhaustion in just 3½ hours. When temperature rises above 102, body functions are impaired and collapse is imminent.

On a subsequent day, after they had recovered, they did the same experiment, except that during rest periods they were allowed to drink as much water as they desired. Now their body temperature rose more slowly. It now took 6 hours to enter the zone of exhaustion, almost twice as long as before.

The third time the athletes were forced to drink as much water as they were losing in sweat. Their temperatures never even reached 101 degrees. At the end of 7 hours when the experiment was ended, the athletes felt they could go on indefinately.

Dr. Pitts discovered that these men, while drinking all the water they wanted, actually drank ½ less water than they lost in sweat. The amount of water they actually needed equaled their 'desire' plus ½.

Force yourself to drink more water than your thirst demands, You may find that you will have more endurance. And then remember the invitation from Jesus, 'If any man thirst, let him come to Me and drink.'
